How can we connect middle school students, growing up in the expatriate bubble of Shanghai, with a completely different side to China?

Origin of Microcampus

“simply connect students to an amazing place during a remarkable stage in their own development and the history of the country in which they live.”

Since 2012, groups of Shanghai American School middle school students have taken four-week journeys to the village of Xizhou in Southwest China's Yunnan Province as participants in the school's Microcampus program. As representatives of their campuses, these students leave the "bubble" of their home city of 22 million people and become immersed in a new community of 2000 people, 2000 kilometers from home, at 2000 meters above sea level.

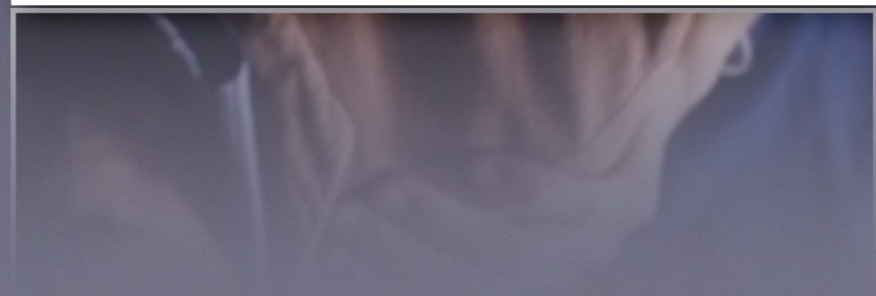

The O.R.E.O. group--the fifteenth--will arrive in Xizhou on March 5, 2016. Guests from around the world are encouraged to follow their journey--reading about, responding to, and joining in the learning adventure.
